LEO SROLE PAPERS

PROVENANCE

The correspondence, surveys and papers of Leo Srole were presented to the Archives of Warren Hunting Smith Library, Hobart and William Smith Colleges by Esther Srole, widow of Leo Srole in 1995. Hobart and William Smith Professor James Spates brought the papers to the archives from the Srole residence in New York City. The original order has been preserved with a few exceptions, which involved separate items having been added after Dr. Srole's death and the withdrawal of the Judaica and NRRRA materials.

The previous summer Dr. Srole's library were similarly given and brought to the library. For correspondence regarding these gifts please see the Archives catalog G mss file/92 S7352 and for photographs please see G phot fileh/115p/2 and G phot fileh/155p3.

Dr. Srole's UNRRA and Judaica materials have been presented to YIVO Institute for Jewish Research (YIVO), 555 W 57th Street, 11th Floor, New York City, 10019, (212) 246-6080.

BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION

Leo Srole (LS), 1908-1993, distinguished sociologist, graduated from Harvard in 1933 and received his Ph.D from University of Chicago in 1940. His appointments during a long and distinguished career as sociologist include the following: Professor of Sociology, Chairman of department of Sociology and Economics, Director of Community research Program at Hobart and William Smith Colleges, 1941-1942; Military Psychologist, Psychological Research Unit, Air Surgeon's Office, United States Army Air Forces, 1943-1945; UNRRA Welfare Director, D.P. Camp Operation, Germany 1945-1946; Professor of Sociology in Psychiatry, Cornell University Medical College, 1952-1959; Professor of Social Sciences, Department of Psychiatry, Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons, 1965-1988; Head of Geel Project in Geel, Belgium, 1967-1975, Chief of Psychiatric Research (Social Sciences), New York State Psychiatric Institute, 1966-1988; Special Consultant, World Health Organization.

Internationally recognized for his research in mental health, immigration, and social patterns, LS instituted some of this research at Hobart and William Smith Colleges. A front page article in the college newspaper, The Herald, 15 October 1942, reports on LS's embarking on a project using undergraduates in research to "study what is characteristic of American culture and society". (LS) This study, thought to have place among the first to utilize undergraduates, became known as Ameriton and acquired national recognition. Another project, the Midtown Manhattan study, also attracted national attention. The Geel Project attracted international attention and researchers continue to consult the study.

LS's publications include: "Mental Health in the Metropolis", "The Social Systems of American Ethnic Groups" and countless articles in scientific journals. He wrote on subjects as widely ranging as: obesity, education, Hogarty, Locke and Gardner, smoking, foster care, as well as many social Jewish issues.

During World War II, LS's work laid the foundation for his continued research and study with UNRRA and the World Health Organization.

For more detailed biographical information please see the Curriculum Vitae in the Archives catalog, G mss file/ 92 S735.

SCOPE AND CONTENT

The Leo Srole Papers contain notes, lectures, drafts, and correspondence related to all aspects of LS's career with the exception the his Judaica studies which are housed at YIVA in New York City. These papers were presented to Hobart and William Smith Colleges' Archives in three sets. The first includes notes and correspondence regarding the Ameriton, Ligonier, Midtown Manhattan, Anomia studies, the Geel Project as well as journal publications and books, from about 1933 to 1993. The actual interview data of the Midtown study comprise a large portion of the collection. For 1942 progress reports on the Ameriton project please see the Archives catalog, G fac file/Srole.

The third set contains the Geel Project papers, which include correspondence, papers, studies and photographs.

Throughout the collection newspaper clippings and journal articles bear notes and annotations of LS.

The container list is divided into several sections: main file and the Geel files which, themselves, are divided into two sections. These are the Geel Princeton files and the Geel Files.
